Local Group Performs With UW Jazz Ensemble

The McFarland High School Jazz Ensemble and the UW-Madison Jazz Ensemble will combine their efforts to present a "top-rated jazz concert", according to Mr. Thomas L. Dvorak, head of the McFarland High School music department. Featured attraction of the concert, to be held at 8:15 p.m. on March 28, is guest soloist Rich Matteson.

Mr. Matteson is a jazz soloist on valve trombone, base trumpet, baritone and tuba. He was a clinician for the Getzen Band Instrument Company and has performed from coast to coast.

Matteson is listed as one of the leading jazz musicians of our time.

Dvorak said he feels that "the concert will be one which will simply make people flip." He said, "With the tremendous enthusiasm that the student body and the community have shown for the jazz ensembles, this concert promises to be one of the real highlights of the year."

The time of the concert has been moved to 8:15 p.m. so that people may be able to attend after Lenten Services. Admission will be $1.00.
